Product Description

Product Case Description (Short Paragraph)

This geometric acrylic coffee table, commissioned by a luxury interior design studio, embodies JAFFA's expertise in translating iconic art movements into functional, contemporary furniture. The client sought a statement piece that paid homage to Piet Mondrian's De Stijl aesthetic—featuring bold primary colors and a rigid black grid—while serving as a durable, practical centerpiece for modern living rooms. We engineered a modular, open-frame table using 12mm colored acrylic panels (red, blue, yellow, and clear) set within a matte black aluminum grid, with a sliding drawer for concealed storage. The transparent and colored acrylic panels interact with light, casting vibrant, layered shadows on the floor, transforming the table from a functional object into a living art installation.

FAQs (Focused on Customization & Practicality)

1. Can the color palette be customized to match my interior design, beyond the primary Mondrian colors?

Yes. We support full custom color matching (Pantone/RAL), allowing you to replace the primary red/blue/yellow with any hues to align with your space's aesthetic.

2. Is the acrylic resistant to scratches and fading from sunlight?

Yes. All acrylic panels are treated with a premium anti-scratch and UV-stabilized coating, preventing damage and color fading even in sunlit living rooms.

3. Can the sliding drawer be removed or customized for different storage needs?

Absolutely. The drawer is fully detachable, and we can customize its size, number of compartments, or even replace it with open shelves for display purposes.
